Quick Intro

- Cody Damon, President of Media Cause
- Media Cause is a full-service digital marketing agency that works exclusively in the nonprofit space.
- Offices in Boston, Dallas, and San Francisco

“The What” of Social Media Analytics

Before we get started...

- 2 questions that need to be answered:
  - ❖ What are your organization or program goals?
    - How do those translate onto social platforms? And how do we measure outcomes?
  - ❖ Who is your audience(s)?
    - Which platforms are they on?

Community Building Plans

Facebook Community Building

What can we learn from your content's performance on Facebook?

Insight #1

Out of four categories of Facebook content (entertain, inform, inspire/support, and membership), the category that engages CreakyJoint's community the most is entertainment. Specifically, entertaining memes about (1) the social life of people with arthritis, (2) health practitioners, and (3) fatigue/tiredness are the top performers. On the other hand, memes about pain and cleaning were the least engaging memes.

Next Step: To increase overall Facebook reach, share more of the best performing memes: more about the social life of people with arthritis, health practitioners, and fatigue/tiredness, and less memes about pain and cleaning.

Insight #2

Out of your 286 posts in September, memes about the social life of people with arthritis is your most engaging type of content. Your 3 social memes engaged an average of 1,626 people. To the right is an example. In contrast, your median engaged users per post is 205!

Next step: The performance of social life memes suggests your community resonates highly with this type of content. Consider taking it a step further by developing blog posts that focus on the social lives of people with arthritis.

Insight #3

Your post about fatigue management performed very well, performing 371% better than your median post. This post reached 12,732 people, when your posts' median reach is only 2,694! (View post at www.fb.com/creakyjoints/posts/10152275494730303)

Next step: Share more articles or create your own articles on fatigue management because your September data suggests your community is very interested in this topic.

Community Building Plan

Twitter Community Building

What can we learn from your content's performance on Twitter?

Insight #1

Your Follow Friday tweets are your top performing tweets - receiving an average of 40.5 engagements per tweet. In comparison, the median engagement among your tweets in September is 10.

Next Step: Continue participating in Follow Fridays.

Insight #2

Unlike Facebook, your membership tweets that include information about the 'Clean My House' benefit performed much better than those that are more general or have a community angle.

Next step: When encouraging your Twitter followers to sign up on your website, tweet more about special benefits like 'Clean My House'.

Insight #3

Your organizational updates, such as the launch of Joint Decisions and photos of your staff, resonate well with your Twitter community. This type of content performed 59% better than your typical tweet.

Next step: Share more tweets that humanize your brand, such as what your staff is working on and updates on Joint Decisions.

Digest Before Lunch

- Step 1 : Define Goals and Audience
- Step 2 : Choose social platform(s) that will help you reach those goals with that audience
- Step 3 : Focus your on-platform metrics around measuring what keeps people interested in your mission
- Step 4 : Setup Goals in Google Analytics and measure how well your efforts are achieving those goals comparatively.

Fun Hack

- Want to know how many of your donors are following you on Facebook or Twitter?

Both of these advertising platforms allow you to upload email lists to target on the platform.

Upload your latest donor email file and select to target only your followers and you will get an estimated number of users.
